PLEASE CHECK ONE:

According to the cited source:

- ☐ A is the only correct answer
- ☐ B is the only correct answer
- ☒ C is the only correct answer
- ☐ D is the only correct answer (if applicable)
- ☒ Consider the following as correct answers:

A B C D

Explanation: Please provide a detailed explanation of your appeal / rebuttal.

DO NOT WRITE THE TEST QUESTION ON THIS FORM. Print/ Write legibly.

The answer choice "C" is the responsibility of employee only when:
1) exceeded 64 sick hrs (96 hrs for suppression shift)
2) Prove injury/sickness is bona fide

To support choice "C" A physician ~~must~~ must be seen before
A Form 48 can ever be returned to supervisor. Thus, making choice "A" answer based on "Answer choice C"

Because you must visit A physician to sign a Form 48
The question is written to seem as if A Form 48
Should be returned upon every sick leave taken

On question #35 it was written to assume that every Highrise bldg has a command center, a fire command center. In the text it does not say what type of things you should "explain" to any manager. The question also The text states that the building code permits locked stairway doors in high-rise bldgs... capable of being unlocked from bldg. fire command center. That is permitted, not a violation from the beginning, so why would the "tester" assume that the mgr had a violation of that nature if the text clearly states, under those conditions he was already within his rights.

THE QUESTION IS ASKING NOT ONLY FOR THE DEFINITION OF 'FIRE' BUT THE BEST DEFINITION OF FIRE. THE PRESENT, EXISTING CORRECT ANSWER FOR THE QUESTION IS WORD-FOR-WORD OUT OF THE BOOK. IT DEFINES 'FIRE' LATER IN THIS SAME SECTION ENTITLED "EXTINGUISHING FIRES," FIRE AS ORIGINALLY DESCRIBED IS CONTEXTUALIZED AS "THE OLD TRIANGLE FIRE TRIANGLE." IT THEN STATES THAT "MODERN RESEARCH LED TO THE UPDATE OF THE FIRE TRIANGLE. AN EXTRA ELEMENT, THE MOLECULAR CHAIN REACTION, WAS ADDED..." ALTHOUGH THE ANSWER 'C' IS NOT WORD-FOR-WORD, IT IS THE BEST ANSWER BECAUSE "WITH THE NEW ELEMENT CAME ANOTHER METHOD OF FIRE EXTINGUISHMENT - INTERRUPTION OF THE MOLECULAR CHAIN REACTION" (pg. 86). IN ADDITION, NOTHING ELSE THAT IS STATED IN THE SENTENCE FOR ANSWER 'C' IS INCORRECT OR BETRAILS FROM THE DEFINITION OF FIRE.

1st paragraph - "A thorough inspection of the outside of the building including fire department access, hydrant accessibility and condition, outside storage conditions, and the viability of the exit discharges should always be attempted before you even get out of the car."

I see this text as the 1st thing an inspector does "during" an inspection.

Answer "A" should be the only correct response. pg. 115, 3rd paragraph

"In buildings that are equipped with an approved sprinkler system, the distance can be reduced from one-half to one-third of the overall diagonal dimension."

One-third of 50 = 16.5. Since 15 ft. is less than 16.5, it is less than 1/3 of the overall diagonal dimension, rendering the 2 exits too close to each other.

Answer "C" should be the correct response. pg. 18 HFD Accountability Manual

The question given contradicts the text. "However, a member's individualism may NOT be acceptable if it causes a significant distraction for the group."

Above in the paragraph it states "Honoring and respecting individual and cultural diversity is critical in our department and society in general."

Based on that statement, answer "C" is most appropriate.

Answer "C" should be the correct response, pg. 35, last paragraph HFD
Accountability Manual

Nowhere in the text does it say "Strive for constant capability improvement"
However, the entire last paragraph of pg. 35 does express how the HFD members strive to recognize imperfections.

"However, if we recognize imperfections as opportunities to continue to improve then we can keep them in perspective and continue to positively move the organization along." pg 35-36

In buildings equipped with sprinkler systems the diagonal distance between egress door may be reduced to one third. If diagonal dimension for a room which is 50ft is reduced then the doors should be 16 feet apart from one another not 15 feet. Door are still too close. If you would separate doors be 15 feet than you are violating the code because you are going more than one third the distance. Questions like this should not be asked cause its not word for word out of the material and requires math to get proper answers. One question makes a big difference on promotional exams.

Stand pipe systems require flow testing every five years. According to NFPA 25 - 08 Inspection and Maintenance of stand pipe equipment, hoses and nozzles require testing annually. The material does not say it requires testing every 5 years the test writer only assumed it. Again it is not word for word out of the book. These standards in this book are regulated by the International Fire Code and NFPA. NFPA states inspection on a yearly bases.

This book states that checklist could be improperly developed and reference incorrect editions of the various codes and standards and the inspectors have a tendency to check only the items listed on the form and nothing else. It also goes on to state that checklist should never be considered substitutes for the actual code document. So what if this new inspector observes a violation of the checklist but the checklist are old standards. It would best to reconduct the inspection with the code in hand. This book warns against checklist use but the question asks for the next step as if it is ok to use it. I also do not see it word for word in the book. It was assumed once again.

The question has two right answers due to containers requiring protection from any vegetation. Vegetation could also become a barrier if not properly removed or cleared. The test writer could have chosen a different word to use in the place of clearance because if you don't clear the vegetation around the containers filled with gasses then the vegetation becomes a barrier. Clearance means to make clear and if area is not maintained clear of vegetation then vegetation becomes a barrier.

Question was asked from guideline written back in 2006. During that time Human Resource Management Division was with in Risk Management. In order to obtain paperwork to give to your doctor for FMLA for him to fill out you had to meet with Risk Management to obtain it. Human Resource Management Division was a separate division from Risk Management once every one moved from 500 Jefferson to 600 Jefferson but prior to that Risk Management and Human Resource were together as one known as Risk Management.

Dimension of Diversity are constant due to our changing demographic. People of color are a growing percentage of the workforce, whites are a decreasing percentage of the workforce, more women are working, people with disabilities are gaining more access to the workplace, workers are increasingly from nontraditional families the average age of workers is increasing, and religious diversity of workers is increasing Chapter 5 page (254). How is diversity not constant? I believe the test writers could have used different wording for the answers to make the answers completely incorrect so there would be no misunderstanding.
